

No More Monopoly

The process of industrial floor maintenance and cleaning can be substantially improved through a new range of Qwikchange universal floor pads, from Diamond Products.

Unlike competitor floor pads, the Qwikchange range comes fitted with a universal adaptor plate that enables the product to be attached to the majority of floor-grinding machinery that is currently available in South Africa. And it's at a considerably discounted rate, which could reduce the overall cost of floor polishing projects by up to 30%.

The universal adaptor plates simply click straight onto the grinding machine, thereby reducing down-time and additional costs associated to bolting and mechanical installation.

The fact that these adaptors are being provided at a highly competitive price is a significant value-add to the local market, which has been severely restricted by brand dominant fixed pricing for a number of years.
